Marcus L. Wilson

Professional Biography

Marcus L. Wilson is a seasoned IT leader with decades of experience driving innovation and delivering impactful technology solutions. As the Founder and CEO of IntelligIS, Inc., he has successfully led the company in serving businesses, educational institutions, and government agencies across Georgia and nationwide.

In 2025, Marcus further solidified his expertise by earning his Certified Information Systems Security Professional (CISSP) certification—one of the most respected credentials in cybersecurity. That same year, he was honored as a Georgia Titan 100, recognizing him as one of the top executives and entrepreneurs in the state. In 2026, he achieved the distinction of becoming a 2nd-year Georgia Titan 100 honoree, reinforcing his continued leadership and impact in the industry.

A respected voice in the technology community, Marcus is a member of the Microsoft Black Partner Growth Initiative, African American Cisco Partner Community, Accenture Diverse Supplier Development Program, and the Morehouse MIEC Program. His deep expertise spans information technology, leadership, and strategic problem-solving, supported by certifications from Cisco, Microsoft, VMware, and CISSP.

Marcus is also the Founder and Executive Director of Bounce Back Organization, Inc., a nonprofit dedicated to empowering justice-impacted Black men to become thriving members of society through technical training, biblical accountability, and structured support.

His mission is deeply personal. Marcus began his journey as a justice-impacted individual, having spent time in the prison system over 30 years ago after making a series of poor decisions. Upon reentering society with a felony record, he faced significant barriers—but chose to rebuild his life with purpose and determination. His lived experience now fuels his passion for creating pathways of opportunity for others facing similar challenges.

Earlier in his career, Marcus served in the U.S. Air Force as a Secure Communications Cryptographic Specialist, where he earned the Air Force Achievement Medal for outstanding service during Operation Desert Shield/Storm. The discipline and technical foundation he developed during his service continue to shape his leadership today.

From overcoming adversity to leading a successful technology company and nonprofit, Marcus embodies resilience, transformation, and purpose-driven leadership.

Why are you interested in serving on a board / commission / committee? As a Dunwoody resident, I am deeply invested in the smart, safe, and vibrant growth of our community. Serving on a City Committee and in particular the Alcohol Review Board, allows me to contribute directly to our city's economic health while ensuring public safety regulations are strictly and fairly upheld. I want to help maintain the balance between supporting our local hospitality businesses and protecting the peach and character of Dunwoody neighborhoods.

What experience do you possess that would be of benefit to a board / commission / committee? My professional background as a lawyer in the construction and real estate fields has trained me to analyze complex regulations and apply them objectively to specific cases. My career requires strict attention to detail and neutral decision-making. Additionally, my experience working within collaborative teams ensures I can deliberate constructively with fellow board members and treat every applicant with fairness and respect.

Neil is an experienced commercial litigator in the Firm's Construction practice group, dedicated to providing practical, results-driven legal counsel to the construction industry. He is known for his thoughtful approach, clear communication, and commitment to protecting his clients' interests at every stage of the construction project. His practice includes representing clients in contract drafting, payment disputes, impact and delay claims, construction and design defect matters, and other issues that are commonly encountered on construction projects. Neil regularly represents owners, contractors, subcontractors, architects, and engineers in all phases of the construction project, from contract negotiations to dispute resolution and everything in between. His general counsel advisory services fit the needs of the construction community.

Neil's dedication to the construction industry is evident through his service as Legal Counsel, Board of Directors and Legislative Task Group leader to the Associated Builders and Contractors of Georgia, Inc., and Georgia Built. He also serves as Executive Committee member for the Construction Financial Management Association of Georgia (CFMA) and sits on national committees for both ABC National and CFMA National. He is also the proud co-host of the Building Leaders Radio Hour podcast series.

Neil has a deep understanding of the field built throughout his years as a construction attorney, and he brings that developed knowledge to every case he handles. He approaches each case strategically, guiding clients through all phases of construction and real estate disputes. Neil's experience, combined with his passion for the industry, makes him well-suited to handle a broad range of complex construction matters.
